Superintendent of Schools

December 16, 2009

Dear Families,

As a follow up to our safety notification last Friday, I would like to inform you that Stamford Police have arrested the suspicious person who was recently spotted on school grounds and that he is currently in custody. The arrest took place in the community, not on school property.

Police tell us that the man is a former Stamford resident who has a criminal record for burglary and larceny. They add that the suspect has no history of violence or issues involving children.

Our schools are conscientious about following comprehensive safety procedures on a daily basis. In light of this recent concern, school personnel have been particularly vigilant about securing doors and monitoring school grounds.

I'd like to thank Stamford Police for their work in resolving this issue quickly and I hope this positive development puts your mind at ease.

Sincerely,
